Washington, April 23 (AP) — The crime trend in Arkansas cities was slightly upward in 1951.

However, the Arkansas increase was shown by the annual crime report of the Federal Bureau of Investigation — was under the national increase.

Where the national increase of 1.1 percent, the Arkansas increase was .7 percent.

Arkansas cities, with a combined population of 221,002, were represented in the report. To other cities reported a total of 3,571 major crimes in 1951, compared to 3,514 in 1950.

Of these crimes, these crime totals, compared with 1950 totals, were: Murder 27 in 1951 and 24 in 1950; Robbery 14 and 22; Burglary 17 and 20; Kidnapping 99 and 106; Assault 231 and 237; Larceny 1,002 and 1,022; Auto theft 201 and 2,080. Auto theft 300 and 200.

The report gave a breakdown of crime reported by authority in cities over 25,000.

Of the Arkansas cities in this class, the report said, no reports were received from Ft. Smith and Fayetteville.

Arkansas cities included in the report were: Little Rock — 3, 15, 50, 200, and 100; Memphis — 3, 10, 40, 80, 300 and 100.

There was no state breakdown on the report but the report said the number of cities crime through the nation increased 5 percent.

Highway

There is the construction of the highway specifically designed to increase the number of miles of highway to 2425 miles. It has been getting 8000 miles of highway added an estimated 25 miles to the state highway system of 9,000 miles by vote over maintenance of the highway system of all state-owned highways and other state highways.

bid the use of any federal funds in the future.

The Senate Banking Committee ordered a new investigation into the dispute, which many of the members have sponsored vigorously.

But the group quit talking about the dispute after the committee's whole vote structure of wage and price controls, although it called for a month's delay in the writing of a bill to continue them past the June 30 expiration date.

Washington, April 23 (AP) — President Philip Murray said today the steel industry "refused to make any effort" in the long deadlocked steel wage dispute because they wanted to be absolutely certain that there would be no agreement.

Murray told the Senate Labor committee the industry "did not want a voluntary agreement because, if there were a voluntary agreement, they would not have a right to hold over the head of our Office of Price Administration."

"Only by pursuing this course of action could the industry create the crisis which they hoped would force them to negotiate a fraud upon the American people," Murray said in a prepared statement.

President Truman asked the industry two weeks ago to prevent a strike of Murray's 400,000 steel workers. The union is demanding a three cent an hour, 12 cents a "fringe" benefits and the union ship which would compel all workers to join a union within a specified time. These benefits have been recommended by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB). Average hourly earnings in the industry are slightly under two dollars.

Allies Accuse Chinese of Dodging Issues

Moscow, April 23 (AP) — Allied force negotiators accused the Communists today of dodging the main issue facing arrangements for ending a Korean armistice.

The Communists replied there would be "no progress at all" on the issue. The United Nations Command changed its attitude.

The exchange ended a 10 minute session of staff officers at Panmunjom. No progress was made in settling the issue of the main issue facing arrangements for ending a Korean armistice.

It appeared more and more that the true supervision negotiators were waiting outcome of secret negotiations in a neighboring tent on prisoner exchange. The prisoner session lasted two hours. There was no report on what happened during negotiations. Allied artillery shells burst in a brief, but heavy barrage near the Panmunjom neutral zone. The concussion shook the wooden floors of the conference tents.

Col. Don O. Darrow opened the meeting by telling the Communists they "N. Command had proposed problems" and we now await action on your part."

North Korean Col. Ching Chun Sun replied Russia met the qualifications of a neutral. He said the allied debate would be ended if both sides "adhere to the agreements" not to bring additional military equipment, including aircraft into Korea during an armistice.

"I find," Darrow said, "that your side still evades the main airfield issue before us. You have merely repeated arguments which do not pertain to the argument."

To be frank," Ching retorted, "I believe that there will be no progress at all unless your side changes your attitude not to resolve issues confronting us."

On that note they recessed until 11 a. m. Thursday (9 p. m. Wednesday EST).

Many Sizes, Kinds of Atom Bombs Tested

Atom Bomb Site, Nev. April 22 (AP)—We have real baby a-bombs and also near-giants, and we have them in great variety.

That is the explanation of the many A-bombs that have been exploded here in a little more than a year. Some prove very good, and others not so good when measured by the grim purpose behind all this work, namely to give our Army and Navy bombs that they can use in battle against enemy troops and ships.

This new picture of America's atomic power comes from the numerous briefings by U. S. atomic energy officials and by generals, which set the stage for Operation Big Shot (the military name is Operation Big Horn), the first public exhibition of A-bomb progress here.

Baby bombs are both small in size and small in explosive power, when compared with our first bombs. In size they are still big but getting small enough for firing in big guns and in guided missiles. They are at the practical military stage.

But not so the A-bombs which are as babies in explosive power. They are not yet useful and no one knows when they will be. The trouble is the present impossibility of gauging their power so that a field commander can shoot them with confidence that they will destroy the objective.

These babies still will be thousands.

DOROTHY DIX Teen-Age Dating

Dear Dorothy Dix: My sister and I both juniors in high school, are not allowed to date. We've never been on a date at all. Our parents don't approve of it. We'd like to enjoy some of the fun the other kids have but mom and dad just don't understand that dances and other recreations are essential in the life of teen-agers. Boys in school seem to like us, they are very friendly in the classroom, but of course we can't speak to them outside.

GERRY
Answer: From 12 years old up, youngsters from all over the country fill my mailbox each week bewailing the fact that their strict parents will not let them date. Although I don't hear as they too, are extremely puzzled over the question. Conscientious mothers and fathers are apt to be a trifle over apprehensive about the problem. Personal experience and talks with parents convince me that they are more apt to be overbearing in dating privileges than the reverse.

Each problem of this type that arises in a family must be dealt with differently. Sometimes the same privileges cannot be extended to two teen-agers in the same family. One may be more responsible than the other and therefore entitled to more freedom. Mindful of his obligation for a child's physical, spiritual and moral welfare, a parent has a difficult decision to make when the dating question arises.

A Rule of Thumb

Trying to make a sweeping rule for so controversial a matter is futile. As near as I could come to one, however is this: Below high-school age, youngsters are better with companions of their own sex, once they enter high school, participating in group activities with boys and girls should be allowed. School dances, football games, basketball games, etc., are as much a part of education as algebra and Latin. Adolescents are preparing for adulthood, and a healthy mingling of the sexes is part of their growing up. The time to allow dating away from school is a matter of the parents' discretion. Local custom sometimes dictates procedure but never should it be followed blindly. Too much difficulty is caused by the wall that "so and so can do it, why can't I?"

Certainly by the time girls become juniors in high school they should be trusted to date. A parent who hasn't by that time taught a daughter to conduct herself properly to behave in public, to handle social activities with grace and poise, has been quite remiss. Each household should have its own rules regarding hours and the number of times a week dating is permitted. (never, for instance, on a school night when homework takes first place). Parents of course, will pass judgment on the boys who take their daughters out, but the judgment should be done on a fair basis of character, not on the social

Dear Miss Dix: At 17 I find myself in love with a man 35. My mother won't let me go out with him because of his age, and also because he is of a different religion. Should I take her advice, or follow my heart?

TONI
Answer: You have a very young and very foolish heart, Toni. To follow it along its present inclination will never bring happiness. A man more than twice your age is not a proper suitor for you, and the religious difference adds just one more serious obstacle. Take my advice, seldom will you—or any other girl—regret following such counsel.

Dear Miss Dix: Recently I formed a club consisting of four sisters, three nieces, and two sisters-in-law. We meet in each other's home every two or three weeks and are home at the latest by 12:30. I am 51, the oldest of the sisters. I have been married 36 years and have three married children. My husband objects to my going out at night, he says my place is with him. Do you think he's right?

MRS. J. A.
Answer: You certainly should have the privilege of a night out once every few weeks, but sometimes it's better not to stand too much on one's rights. After years of a busy household with growing children, your husband probably

Chinese Still 'Smart' From 1951 Beating

Seoul, Korea, April 23 (AP)—Chinese troops in Korea are "still smarting" from the beating they took in their 1951 spring offensive, Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today on the anniversary of that offensive.

That Red onslaught lasted a week before the Chinese masses were stopped north of Seoul. Their casualties were tremendous. The bugle blowing Chinese had attacked along a front a few miles south of the present line under orders to arrive United Nations forces out of Korea.

Van Fleet said today he was sure the Reds don't have "any idea of launching another offensive." But if they did try it, he said, his Eighth Army would finish it very probably further north than the present static line.

He said the enemy doesn't harbor any ideas of launching another offensive which would be brushed by the Eighth Army and attached United Nations forces. The present static line, he said, is probably further north than the present static line. I doubt if he is foolish enough to make another offensive attempt.

present static line." "I have been asked by the Associated Press to comment on the first anniversary of the Communist spring offensive launched last April," the U. N. ground commander said. "I can say with confidence that I am convinced the enemy still is smarting from last year's bitter experience. We whipped him when he tried to throw us off the Peninsula last April and we made our victory stick with our May counter-offensive. I am certain he wants and needs proof that the Eighth Army is in Korea to stay until such time that authorities on high international levels agree otherwise."

He said the enemy doesn't harbor any ideas of launching another offensive which would be brushed by the Eighth Army and attached United Nations forces. The present static line, he said, is probably further north than the present static line. I doubt if he is foolish enough to make another offensive attempt.

New TB Drug Is Not Yet Proven

St. Louis, Mo., April 23 (AP)—Scientists and laymen had word today from the world-famous Trudeau Tuberculosis Laboratory that the new anti-TB "miracle" drugs were "not yet the magic bullet so long awaited."

The laboratory head, Dr. William Tenckent, Jr., said last night tests conducted at the pioneer tuberculosis sanatorium revealed patients tended to build up resistance to the new drugs as the treatment progressed. He said that germs developed resistance to the drugs as early as 28 days after the start of treatment.

The U. S. Red Cross conducted relief operations after 284 deaths in the United States in 1951.

Wanger Found Guilty in Shooting

Hollywood, Calif., April 22 (UP)—Producer Walter Wanger was found guilty today of the shooting of actress Jeanne Cruger, who was believed to be "threatening" his marriage to Jeanne Cruger.

The verdict came on a reduction of the original charge that Wanger assaulted the handsomeness with intent to kill.

The silver-haired producer, five times president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, now faces a jail sentence ranging up to 10 years, a $500 fine or both.

The producer's decision to waive a jury trial, aimed at testimony presented in a recent grand jury indictment of the shooting, and then throw himself on the mercy of the court apparently paid off.

In addition to avoiding a trial, the advance billing of "one of Hollywood's most lurid" he received a reduction in charge and a mandatory jail sentence found guilty on the original charge.

A composer, Wanger was called stand and face Judge Harry E. Tolson, who walked slowly but firmly to the bench.

Then in a monotone the judge faced his verdict with an exhalation of the action.

It was up to the court to prove moral certainty that first such assault was committed and that the defendant had a conceived idea to murder.

San Monica, Calif., April 22 (UP)—Walter Wanger, who shot a woman he feared was stealing the spotlight from his wife, is due in court today to hear a judge's verdict in the case.

The 37-year-old producer charged assault with a deadly weapon.

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

"YOU don't know what war was like," Henri told Leonie, "or you wouldn't talk so lightly about getting it. The Yankees ruined our entire way of life. And if you could have witnessed the struggle we had to win back our supremacy in this state, when Wade Hampton—"

"Uncle," Leonie said, "don't tell me again about the Red Shirts. I suppose Colonel Calvert held out against that, too."

"He said it was a mob movement," Henri told her, "and that he didn't care to have a part in it. He said he would assist in keeping law and order if needed. That's the kind of man he is."

"It does seem to me," Heloise interrupted, "that we're getting away from the subject a little."

"What is there to say about it?" Leonie asked. "You and Uncle object to Lincoln on the grounds that he's a Protestant and that his family have always done what they thought was right instead of following everybody else like a lot of sheep."

Whenever the Irish Hughes blood came out in Leonie, Henri could only shudder. He spluttered now. "I've forbidden that ruffian to come into this house once before. I've got a good mind to do it again."

"If you do—," Leonie began, but Heloise interrupted.

"We aren't going to do anything of the kind. Your uncle is just up good sense not to get too deeply involved with this Lincoln Calvert. You're putting yourself in the way of trouble and heartburnings."

"Uncle is a great one to talk," Leonie said. "He's been going with Miss Antoinette for about a hundred years, and she's a Protestant. And an aristocrat," she added scornfully. "Wouldn't the Fieldings have looked down on us?"

"There is no need to drag Antoinette into this," Henri said stiffly.

"Did she promise to bring up your children Catholics?" Leonie demanded.

"We never discussed such a thing," Henri said. "It would have been improper."

"Then how would you have ever found out?"

"Some suitable third person would have made the necessary representations," Henri said.

"Well, now let's don't cross our bridges until we come to them," Heloise urged. "There's no need to discuss religious arrangements yet, I hope."

Why the right power is so important to truck buyers

When a truck engine is too small for the job, you'll pay in poor performance and high upkeep. When it's too big, you'll waste money on operating costs.

To be sure of the right power on every job, Dodge builds eight great truck engines. There's one "Job-Rated" to fit your work.

In fact, you get a truck that's "Job-Rated" in every way. Every load-moving unit is factory-engineered to meet the most severe operating conditions. And every load-carrying unit is factory-engineered to provide the strength and capacity needed.

We'll gladly tell you all the facts about Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks.

Records show low upkeep. For dependability and low repair costs, rugged Dodge truck engines have 4-ring pistons with chrome-plated top ring and heat-resisting exhaust valve seat inserts.

Owners report, "Greater value!" You get all these plus values: Cycle-bond brake linings; easier handling, sharper turning; gyrol Fluid Drive available on all 1 1/2, 3 1/2 and 1-ton and Route-Van models.
